

Deeply cut inside

One day Pip the platypus was in the dam looking for food when she thought that she had caught a fish when it was really a sharp piece of glass. Pip held onto the piece of glass with all of her might.

When she had walked onto the bank she ate her glass then fell asleep. When she woke up, she could hardly breathe so when Peter came home from school and Pip was not moving as usual.

Peter ran to find his mother. Peter's mother said, "Go and get the vet" He was back in a minute with the vet. The vet said that they would have to take Pip to town in the car. Soon it was over and they all went home.
