

Out Camping

We have a family camping trip every year with my Dad,
Grandparents, Dad's 6 brothers, their partners and their children.

We find a nice spot down by the Murray River.

We set up camp, and sit around the campfire and we talk and have a laugh.

We stare up at the stars and imagine what could be.

We stare out at the water, and see the reflection from the blazing flames of the fire.

The water ripples and the reflection all goes blurry.

The trees sway, back and forth in the wind.

Leaves blowing off their branches making rustling sounds.

From the silence, to the whistling noise from the wind, then comes the gentle patter of rain.

It gives you a pleasant feeling.

Like this is the place to be.

With Family. That's all you need.

Down by the river, enjoying the fresh air and the environment.

It feels like here, I was meant to be!
